The study, published in the Journal of Primary Care, 204-209, September 2016, examined the costs and outcomes of rural and base hospital outpatient clinics.

We also continue to seek funding for the next phase of our farm-related suicide research programme which is a detailed psychological and social research study. This is a ground-breaking piece of research and we look forward to sharing the results.

The Rural Support National Council will be structured as a charitable trust responsible to the Trusts around the country. Chairperson. The Rural Support National Council will be structured as a charitable trust responsible to the Trusts around the country. “Rural Support Trusts do fantastic work across the country,” says Murray Pearson, CEO 2degrees mobile, representing the Rural Health Alliance Aotearoa New Zealand. “It’s great to see them recognised in this way.”

The Rural Support Trusts provide a range of services to rural communities, including mental health support, suicide prevention, and crisis management. Mr Pearson says the recognition of the Rural Support Trusts is a testament to their hard work and dedication to their communities.
